

For years Casper, a tan and white Smooth fox terrier, was a favorite canine model of mine. He appeared in many of my paintings, from the time he was a pup until this final painting which was completed a few short weeks before he crossed the rainbow bridge. His beautiful head, lively expression and joyful spirit never failed to inspire me. Casper was always willing to pose for me no matter what silly situation I put him in. I truly miss him both as a model and as a furry friend.
